PREFACE.

It is now nearly ten years since several of the governing bodies of London represented to the London County Council the advisability of codifying and consolidating the Acts relating to the local government of London.

Mr. G. H. Radford, M.P., who was then Chairman of the Parliamentary Committee of the Council, took a keen interest in these representations, and the Council on the 3rd July 1900, on his motion, referred the matter to the General Purposes Committee, and several conferences were held between the two Committees on this reference.

The Committees came to the conclusion that, before codification of the London statutes was attempted, the public and private Acts relating to London local government should be so collated as to show the existing law; and they were also impressed with the fact that the many private Acts of the Metropolitan Board of Works and of the Council were not accessible in a convenient form.

The Council accordingly, on 4th February 1902, decided, on the recommendation of the General Purposes Committee, that the public and private Acts of Parliament relating to the work of the Council should be collated and printed. The preparation of the work was placed under the direction of the Parliamentary Committee, and carried out by the Clerk of the Council in the Parliamentary branch of his department, under the direct supervision of Mr. Seager Berry, then Parliamentary Officer.

To decide exactly what Acts the work should comprise involved long and careful consideration, and it was ultimately decided that all public Acts relating specially to the administrative county of London, and all local and personal Acts affecting the powers and duties of the Council, should be included therein; but that, generally speaking, Acts relating to railways, gas, water, electricity, markets, docks, canals, tramways, ecclesiastical matters, and charities, and Acts which were special to the city of London, should be omitted on the grounds that many of these matters would be more conveniently dealt with in separate works, if so desired, and that their inclusion in the present work would make it too voluminous.

The Committee had the advantage of the presence on the sub-committee who supervised the work of Lord Welby, G.C.B. (a member of the Statute Law Revision Committee), Sir Melvill Beachcroft, Mr. G. H. Radford, M.P., and Mr. T. B. Napier, M.P.

Mr. Albert Gray, K.C. (another member of the Statute Law Revision Committee), at the Committee's request kindly gave them some valuable suggestions as to the form the volumes should take.

The general principle on which the volumes have been compiled is, following the method adopted in the Revised Statutes, to omit from the reprint of the Acts all repealed, obsolete, and superseded provisions, inserting a note as to what these provisions were, and how they come to be repealed, obsolete, or superseded as the case may be. Parts of Acts, however, descriptive of public works, such as street improvements and Thames tunnels, have been printed in extenso, as future reference to them may often be necessary, although the works have been completed.

For brevity's sake the enacting words of each Act have been omitted and sections which might be termed "common form" sections, and which are frequently identical or nearly identical in series of Acts of the same character, have not been on each occasion reproduced, but there is set against the number of each section a brief note of the subject matter, with a reference to the preceding identical or nearly identical section, and showing in the latter case the slight difference of wording.

For the same reason the Council's Money Acts, each of which is in turn almost entirely superseded by the Money Act of the following year, have been printed in a very condensed form.

During the preparation of the work it became evident that there were many Acts which did not strictly come within its original scope, but which were frequently referred to in the Acts being dealt with, and it was, therefore, decided to add a short Appendix, containing the principal Acts referred to in the Acts primarily included; and it is believed that this Appendix adds considerably to the value of the volumes. It was also thought that it would be of assistance to add, as has been done, a Chronological Table of the Statutes specially relating to London which were passed from 1700 to 1907 (inclusive), with notes showing repeals and amendments of such Acts.

It is desired to acknowledge the valuable help obtained from well-known books of reference, such as Chitty's Statutes, the Revised Statutes, Mr. Macmorran's "Local Government Acts," Mr. John Hunt's "London Local Government," Messrs. Michael and Will's "Gas and Water Acts," and the "Law of Public Education," by Messrs. Edwardes Jones and Sykes.

The work has been upwards of five years in preparation—a period which may not be considered excessive, having regard to its magnitude, and to the fact that it has had to be mainly produced in such spare time as could be devoted to it by a busy staff, who, indeed, have gladly given up many hours of their own time in order to further its progress.

During this period there have been, as might be expected, repeals of matter which was already in print. These repeals are dealt with in the table of Addenda et Corrigenda, which appears in the preliminary pages of the first volume.

Although every care has been taken to make the work as accurate as possible, it can hardly be expected that no errors have crept into it.

The Clerk of the Council desires to say that he will be grateful to any readers who may be good enough to communicate to him errors which they may discover.

It is believed that these volumes, with the aid of the Index (which has been a matter of special consideration), may, at any rate, serve the purpose of placing before members of the Council, and any of the public who may be interested in such matters, a great deal of the law relating to London, particularly the law contained in private Acts, in a more accessible and convenient form than they have hitherto been able to find it.

It is hoped that, if this work is found to be of value, it may be practicable to keep it up to date by the issue of annual volumes, which would include notes of any future repeals and amendments of the Acts contained in this work.

Mr. O. T. Williams, B.A. (Lond.), of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law, has assisted most materially in the preparation of the work. Mr. Seager Berry, on his appointment as Solicitor to the Council, continued to edit and superintend the volumes and to see them through the press.

[Preamble (reciting 18 & 19 Vict. c. 120) rep. 55 & 56 Vict. c. 19 (S.L.R.).]

Church rates
where made in open vestry
before passing of the Act 18 & 19
Vict. c. 120.
to continue to be so made.

1. Where at the time of the passing of the said Act the power of making church rates or rates of the nature of church rates in any parish was vested in any open vestry, or in any meeting in the nature of an open vestry meeting, or in any meeting of the parishioners, inhabitants, or ratepayers generally, or of such of the parishioners, inhabitants, or ratepayers as were rated at or above any specified amount or value (whether such vestry or meeting were holden for the parish at large or for any liberty or other district therein), such power shall not be deemed to have become vested in the vestry constituted in such parish under the said Act, but shall be exercised as if the said Act had not been passed. . . . [Part omitted (as to rates already made) rep. 38 & 39 Vict. c. 66 (S.L.R.).]

2. Nothing in the said Act or this Act shall affect or be deemed to have affected any power of electing or appointing churchwardens or making church rates, or other power which, at the time of the passing of the said Act, was vested in any such open vestry or meeting as aforesaid, or any elected or other vestry, where such vestry or meeting acts exclusively for any district (by whatever denomination distinguished) created for ecclesiastical purposes only. [See the Church Rate Abolition Act 1868, s. 10.]

Nothing in this Act or in 18 & 19 Vict. c. 120. to affect ecclesiastical districts.

3. Save as herein-before otherwise provided, all the duties, powers, and privileges (including such as relate to the affairs of the church, or the management or relief of the poor, or the administration of any money or other property applicable to the relief of the poor,) which might have been performed or exercised by any open or elected or other vestry or any such meeting as aforesaid in any parish, under any local Act or otherwise, at the time of the passing of the said Act of the last session, shall be deemed to have become transferred to and vested in the vestry constituted by such last-mentioned Act; except so far as any such duties, powers, or privileges may in the case of a parish included in any district mentioned in Schedule (B.) to the said Act be vested by section ninety thereof in the board of works of such district: Provided that all duties and powers relating to the affairs of the church, or the management or relief of the poor, or the administration of any money or other property applicable to the relief of the poor, which at the time of the passing of the said Act were vested in or might be exercised by any guardians, governors, trustees, or commissioners, or any body other than any open or elected or other vestry, or any such meeting as herein-before mentioned, shall continue vested in and be exercised by such guardians, governors, trustees, or commissioners or other body as aforesaid. 10. And whereas doubts are entertained whether the provision in section one hundred and forty-four of the said Act of the last session, authorizing the Metropolitan Board of Works,* where it appears to them that further powers are required for the purpose of any work for the improvement of the metropolis or public benefit of the inhabitants thereof, to make applications to Parliament for that purpose, and providing that the expenses of such application may be defrayed as other expenses of the said Board, extends to authorize applications to Parliament by such Board for powers for providing parks, pleasure grounds, places of recreation, and open spaces, and

Section 144. of 18 & 19 Vict. c. 120. declared to extend to authorize applications to Parliament for providing parks, etc.

* Now the London County Council. See 51 & 52 Vict. c. 41, s. 40 (8).

it is expedient to remove such doubts : The powers given to the said Board to make applications to Parliament, and the provision for the expenses of such application, extend respectively to applications to Parliament for the purpose of providing parks, pleasure grounds, places of recreation, and open spaces for the improvement of the metropolis or the public benefit of the inhabitants thereof, and to the expenses of all such applications.

District boards and vestries empowered to take ground to be maintained as an open space or pleasure ground.

11. Any district board * or vestry * may take, by agreement or gift, any land or any right or easement in or over land, for any estate or interest therein, and on such terms and conditions as they may think fit, for the purpose of such land being either kept as an open space or being kept and maintained as a pleasure ground for the public benefit of the inhabitants of the district or parish ; but this enactment shall not authorize any expenditure to be defrayed by rates, except for the purpose of enclosing, maintaining, planting, and otherwise improving the same. [See 44 & 45 Vict. c. 34, s. 5.]

Recited Act and this Act to be as one.

12. The said Act of the last session and this Act shall be construed together as one Act.

SCHEDULE (A.).

Containing AGREEMENT between the Metropolitan Board of Works and the Metropolitan District Railway Company confirmed by the foregoing Act.

AGREEMENT made and entered into this fifteenth day of May one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight between the Metropolitan Board of Works (herein-after called the Board) of the one part, and the Metropolitan District Railway Company (herein-after called the Company) of the other part.

Whereas by the Thames Embankment Act, 1862, for constructing the embankment on the north side of the said river between Westminster Bridge and Blackfriars Bridge, it was enacted, section 83, that the viaduct in front of the works and premises of the City of London Gaslight and Coke Company shall be carried upon two arches of such dimensions as therein specified, and by section 84 that there should be one arch under the said viaduct in front of the said Whitefriars Dock of a span and dimensions therein specified, and it was intended that the said embankment should from the eastern end of Temple Gardens to the Whitefriars Dock be constructed on a viaduct, with a roadway of seventy feet in width: And whereas by the Metropolitan District Railways Act, 1864, under which the said Metropolitan District Railway Company was incorporated, for the purpose of constructing a railway from Kensington in the county of Middlesex to Trinity Square in the city of London, which railway was intended to run along the said embankment, it was enacted, section 42, that the embankment and road mentioned in the Thames Embankment Act, 1862, to be formed opposite to the City of London Gaslight and Coke Company and Whitefriars Dock, shall be so constructed as shall best suit the formation of the railway and works hereby authorized, and the said embankment and roadway and the convenience of the said gasworks and docks, and as shall be agreed upon between the engineers for the time being of the said Board and of the Railway Company, anything in the same Act contained notwithstanding, subject nevertheless to such arbitration as is herein-after provided for in case of difference between the engineers; provided that the Board may construct the roadway of the width of one hundred feet, and in that case the referee herein-after named for the settlement of questions of compensation arising between the Company and the Metropolitan Board of Works shall assess the amount which in his judgment ought to be allowed to the Company in respect of the expense of acquiring the additional width of thirty feet for the purpose of such roadway ; provided also, that the inner wall of the said roadway shall not extend more than sixty-eight feet from the centre line of the said roadway as shown on the deposited plans referred to in the Thames Embankment Act, 1862, and certain sections of such Act, including sections 39, 40, 41, 43, 52, 61, contained provisions in reference to or affecting compensation to be paid to owners, lessees, and occupiers : And whereas it has been agreed between the engineers of the said Board and of the Railway Company that it will best suit the formation of the railway and the works connected therewith, and also of the said embankment and roadway authorized by the Thames Embankment Act, 1862, and the convenience of the said gasworks and dock, that the embankment and road to be formed from the eastern end of the Temple lands to the west side of Bridewell Wharf, including the space opposite the said Gaslight and Coke Company and the Whitefriars Dock, be constructed as a solid embankment, with a roadway of the width of one hundred feet : And whereas it has been agreed between the said Board and the Company as follows ; (that is to say,) Now this indenture witnesseth, and each of the said parties hereto doth hereby covenant with the other of them, as follows :

1. That the said embankment and road shall be constructed from the eastern end of the Temple lands to the west side of Bridewell Wharf, including the space opposite the London Gaslight and Coke Company and the Whitefriars Dock, as a solid embankment, and that the Board shall construct the roadway of the width of one hundred feet thereon.

2. That the said Company shall construct their railway within such solid embankment, and shall proceed with and complete such railway without delay when and so soon as the state of progress of the Board's works will allow, so that the works of the Company and of the Board may be completed by the fifteenth July one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine.

3. That the Company shall take all such steps as may be necessary to bring the various provisions and power of the said Acts of 1862 and 1864 into full operation, and the Board shall concur in the taking of such steps when it shall be necessary for the Board so to do, and the land reclaimed by the embankment shall be used in such manner as will diminish the compensations claimable by any parties.

4. That Lord Stanley, or some other party to be nominated by one of the Judges of the superior Courts in manner referred to by the 61st section of the Act of 1864, shall ascertain and determine in what proportions the compensations payable consequent upon the said embankment being constructed as a solid embankment shall be paid by the Board and Company respectively ; and in defining and settling such proportions due regard shall be had by the arbitrator to the saving which will accrue to the Company and the Board respectively by the adoption of a solid embankment and the construction of the railway within such solid embankment, instead of the construction of the embankment roadway on arches as contemplated by section 83 of the said Act of 1862, and the construction of the railway independently of the embankment.

5. That in order to form a fund for the discharge of the compensations aforesaid an account shall be opened at the London and Westminster Bank in the name of the Earl of Devon and Sir John Thwaites; that the Railway Company shall forthwith pay to such account the sum of forty thousand pounds, and the Board shall also pay to the same account from time to time such sum as shall be necessary, and, when the arbitrator shall have settled the proportions in which the compensation shall be paid as between the Board and the Company, the Board and the Company respectively shall pay from time to time, as compensation becomes payable, any further sums which may have become necessary beyond their previous payments to meet their respective proportions thereof to the said account, to be applied in discharge of the same.

6. That the payments agreed to be made in article 5 are not in any way to affect or prejudice the Board or the Company as regards the comparative liability of the Company or the Board as between themselves respectively.

7. That with regard to the payment of the sum of two hundred thousand pounds mentioned in section 61 of the said Act of 1864 the Company shall pay to the Board fifty thousand pounds, part thereof, on the first day of July one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine, and the further sum of seventy-five thousand pounds on the first day of July one thousand eight hundred and seventy, and the further sum of seventy-five thousand pounds on the first day of July one thousand eight hundred and seventy-one, and that interest on such sum of two hundred thousand pounds, at five pounds per centum per annum, shall be paid by the Company to the Board as from the first day of July one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight half-yearly, the first payment of interest to be made on the first day of January one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine, until the whole be paid; and as regards any further sum which may be due or awarded under the same 61st section to the Board, it shall be payable by three equal annual instalments bearing interest at the same rate from the date at which the Company shall take possession of the land for stations in respect of which it may become payable, the first instalment being payable at the end of one year from the Company so taking possession.

8. That the Company shall, not later than the first day of July one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, commence the construction of their railway and works from Westminster Bridge to the Temple, and will thenceforward continually proceed with the construction of such portion of their railway and works with all reasonable despatch, and as regards so much of the railway and works as are to be constructed under so much of the embankment as is not yet formed the Company shall, after such embankment shall be in a state to allow of the same, construct the same simultaneously with the construction of that portion of the embankment, so that those portions of the railway and works and embankment may be completed contemporaneously; and in case of the Company not proceeding with the construction of the mentioned portion of the railway and works simultaneously with the construction by the Board of the embankment, the Board may proceed with the construction of the embankment as they might have done under the 63rd section of the said Act of 1864 had this agreement not been entered into.

9. That in case of any difference between the engineer of the Board and the engineer of the Company with respect to the mode of construction of the railway and works in connexion with the said embankment, such difference shall from time to time be referred under the 62nd section of the said Act of 1864.

In witness whereof the Board and the Company have respectively caused their common seals to be hereunto affixed, the day and year first above written.

Sealed by order,

JOHN POLLARD,

Clerk to the Board.

Board of

Every copy shall be accompanied by a notice specifying a day, being not less than fourteen days after the date of the service of the notice on or before which any objection to the provisional list may be made, and stating the mode in which an objection is to be made. Such copy and notice shall be served in the same way as notices by an assessment committee are served :
- (4.) An objection may be made to any such provisional list by the said occupier, and by the surveyor of taxes, or by either of them, by notice thereof in writing being served on the clerk of the assessment committee, on the overseers, on the surveyor of taxes, and on the occupier, or on such of them as the case may require :
- (5.) The clerk of the assessment committee, on the receipt of the notice of any objection, shall forthwith summon a meeting of the committee, and give notice of the time and place of such meeting to the overseers, to the surveyor of taxes, and the occupier :

- (10.) A provisional list during the time that it is in force shall be deemed to form part of the valuation list for the time being in force, and shall (so far as is necessary) be substituted for so much of that valuation list as relates to the same hereditament, and every rate and tax in respect of which the valuation list is conclusive, which are respectively made or charged after the provisional list comes into force, and the proportion of the current rate charged as before provided in this section shall be levied accordingly ; but if when the next revision of the valuation list takes place the list as approved and altered on appeal contains a smaller value for the hereditament comprised in a provisional list than the value stated in such provisional list, the amount of rate or tax which has been overpaid in consequence of the larger value having been stated shall be repaid or allowed :
- (11.) Nothing in this section shall affect the value on which any rate is made or sum is assessed or contribution required which is made, assessed, or required on the totals of the gross or rateable value of parishes or unions.

The trustees of Thomas George Corbett, deceased, claim the whole of London Fields, from the 5th April to the 12th August in every year in severalty, and they also claim the soil during the remainder of the year, subject to the rights of common which may be then exercised thereon, part as freehold and part as copyhold; and as to that part which is freehold, they claim to be exclusively entitled to the soil, and to all mines, minerals, and brick-earth in and under the same; and as to that part which is copyhold they claim to be entitled to the soil and the brick-earth in and under the same upon payment to the lords of the manor of a royalty.

The copyhold tenants of the manor and the owners of enfranchised copyholds claim rights of common of pasture over the Lammas fields from the 12th August to the 5th April in every year, and over the waste lands at all times of the year, and also certain rights to dig gravel and sand, and to lop trees on the said waste lands, such rights of common of pasture being subject to the byelaws which heretofore have been and hereafter may be made by the homage of the said manor: also the right when assembled as homage of the said manor at the courts of the said manor, to regulate the aforesaid rights of common of pasture by making byelaws for determining the number of cattle which each commoner may turn on the lands, and the fines and dues to be paid in respect thereof, and by appointing drivers for superintending the same, and making other regulations warranted by the custom of the said manor.

This Scheme affects the rights so claimed as aforesaid only so far as is absolutely necessary for the purposes contemplated by this Scheme.

The lords of the manor, the owners of the London Fields, and certain of the part owners of the other Lammas fields, do not consent to the Scheme. 15. Printed copies of this Scheme shall at all times be sold at the office of the Board, to all persons desiring to buy the same, at a price not exceeding sixpence each.
